Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Phone service is down, the electricity is fading, and the living dead are pounding at the door. What do you do when there is no hope left? That is the question answered in this book, where people from all walks of life, attacked on all sides by zombies, use their only means of communication to say goodbye one last time to loved ones-their computer. Found in the rubble of an internet provider s collapsed building, the data retrieved was a cache of lost emails. Heartbreaking, comical, and some that are just plain mean, these are the last thoughts of human beings who are no longer with us. Though they are lost to us, their last words are not. These are Emails of the Dead.
